Product Description

Product type and specifications

Mesh specifications: covering various mesh specifications such as 80 mesh, 100 mesh, 120 mesh, and 150 mesh. The mesh size represents the number of mesh holes per unit area, and the filtering accuracy of the funnel varies depending on the mesh size. For example, 80 mesh is relatively rough and can quickly filter larger particles; 150 mesh is more refined and suitable for filtering smaller particles.

Size and Weight: There are multiple sizes and weights to choose from, such as 140g, 160g, and other weight specifications for 100 mesh, as well as large size designs to meet different usage scenarios and needs. Some funnels are labeled as "Trumpet" styles, which may have advantages in specific refueling or pouring operations.

Product characteristics

Oil compatibility: Suitable for oily liquids such as engine oil, gasoline, etc. When adding oil to components such as the engine and fuel tank during car maintenance, it can effectively filter impurities in the liquid and protect important components such as the engine.

Paper material: Paper material has certain toughness and filtering performance, while relatively low cost. Disposable use can avoid cross contamination and ensure cleanliness during each refueling operation.

PRICE

The prices of funnels of different specifications vary and are priced on a box by box basis. For example, the 010 mesh large-sized 160g funnel is priced at $15.79 per box; The large-sized 200g funnel with 150 mesh size 017 is priced at $23.15 per box, etc.

These oily paper funnels provide a convenient, clean, and economical filtration solution for adding oil during car maintenance. Meklon products have them, and the more you buy, the greater the discount you can enjoy. Waiting for you to inquire.
